Citizenship: UNITED STATES

Residency: Florida Resident

A Florida resident for tuition purposes is a person who has, or a dependent person whose parent or legal guardian has had, established and maintained legal residence in Florida for at least twelve consecutive months. Residence in Florida must be a bona fide domicile rather than temporary stay. Residency is determined at the time of enrollment at an institution of higher education. To qualify as a Florida resident for tuition purposes, you must be a U.S. citizen, permanent resident, or legal alien granted an indefinite stay by the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services. Other persons not meeting the twelve-month legal residence requirement may be classified as Florida residents for tuition purposes only if they fall within one of the limited special categories authorized by the Florida Legislature and Board of Governors. All other persons are ineligible for classification as a Florida "resident for tuition purposes." Living in or attending school in Florida will not, in itself, establish legal residence. Students who depend on out-of-state parents for support are presumed to be legal residents of the same state as their parents. Please select one of the following options, and provide the appropriate required documentation for the option selected.

I have read and understood the information above. Yes [ ]
